Abstract
The purpose of this International Community services in SIKL was to give a service in socialization of international engagement in international education MoU. Education is a process of socialization, namely socializing values, knowledge, and skills in life. Learning is a product of the citizens themselves, that is, they can live without changing address future threats and challenges (Mufida, 2018). As for SIKL itself, they have the view that the progress of a country depends on the education of its young generation, and they also have the paradigm that the success of a student is influenced by educators who teach in schools. Socialization and introduction of the program was delivered during the activities of PkM. The result of this PkM activity was motivating the students and staffs in SIKL managements in executing the implementation of international collaboration.

1 | INTRODUCTION

Education curriculum socialization is an Indonesian educational institution located in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, catering to Indonesian citizens residing in Malaysia. Considered the top foreign school, SIKL was the first to receive accreditation from the School/Madrash Accreditation Board (BASM) in 2012, thanks to its innovative learning system [1]. SIKL education system is continuously evolving and adaptable to the changing times, enabling it to meet the standards set by BASM. The rapid advancements in science and technology greatly influence human life. The Education and Training Cooperation Sector at SIKL is responsible for developing education and training collaborations with international and national organizations [2]. They also provide guidance and supervision for Indonesian Schools Abroad and monitor the implementation of learning assignments. To fulfill these responsibilities, the sector performs various functions, including preparing assessments, implementing, and developing cooperation with international organizations, overseeing non-degree education, and training cooperation, guiding, and supervising Indonesian Schools Abroad, and monitoring learning assignment affairs.

Several activities are organized under the Education and Training Cooperation Sector, including diplomatic training with international institutions, collaborative training programs to enhance the knowledge and skills of diplomats, and bilateral education and training development with partner countries [3]. The Ministry of Foreign Affairs' Centre for Education and Training plays a crucial role in fostering collaborations with diplomatic training institutions of friendly nations, international educational institutions, and domestic educational institutions, with the aim of enhancing the training provided by the Indonesian Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The Kuala Lumpur Indonesian School follows the national curriculum of Indonesia, but there are minor adjustments considering the geographical, natural resource, and infrastructure differences [4]. The education system in Malaysia is predominantly administered by the federal government and encompasses education from pre-school to tertiary institutions. The learning services provided at SIKL include early childhood education, kindergarten, elementary, and middle school education [5].

While both Malaysia and Indonesia have well-structured education systems, there are differences between the two countries at various levels of education. For example, Malaysia offers pre-primary education for students aged 4-6 years, and elementary school is mandatory for children aged 7-12 years. There are national schools for Tamil and Chinese students, as well as national-level schools for Malay students. The primary education curriculum focuses on foundational skills, such as reading, writing, and mathematics, while the later stages aim to strengthen and utilize these skills. To ensure alignment between the Indonesian curriculum and the curriculum at SIKL, it is essential to promote socialization of international collaboration. This facilitates the sharing of updated data and ensures that the Indonesian curriculum is effectively implemented at SIKL. The objective of this international community service is to address the specific needs of SIKL and support the successful implementation of the Indonesian curriculum.

2 | METHOD

The activity method is divided into 3 stages, namely the first concept/theory study, the second is field practice, and the third is reflection. The following is an explanation of each stage:

1) Initial Stage, this stage is carried out before the program is implemented including preparation and socialization.
2) Core Stage, this stage is the core of the training program implementation.
3) The final stage is mentoring, intensive assistance is carried out by students who live there for approximately 2 months which will be counted as field teaching activities (PPL).
4) Stages carried out after the implementation of the program are Evaluation and reflection. Evaluation of activities is carried out to assess the implementation of the training program. Activity evaluation aims to find out the obstacles faced, and to assess whether implementation is in accordance with the objectives that have been determined at the beginning of the activity. In addition, an evaluation was also carried out on the trainees to determine their abilities after attending the training.

The theoretical study was carried out virtually by academics from the International Community Service Team, with the following material. Prior to the implementation of the training, pre-test and post-test were carried out to find the students' awareness of education.

The activities were carried out according to the schedule, considering the teachers’ main duties and time constraints. By involving experts like PhD, Sri Yuliani and Julianto from the Department of English Language Teaching at FKIP Islamic University in Riau ensured that they provided theoretical knowledge and practical application. Overall, the discussion revolves around the successful implementation of non-profit projects, the importance of hilarious international cooperation, and the solutions offered to address partner issues. The aim is to improve the educational system of SIKL and ensure effective implementation of the Indonesian language curriculum.

4 | CONCLUSION
Based on this community service activity, two main conclusions can be drawn. Firstly, the knowledge and understanding of SIKL students regarding the socialization of international collaboration have significantly increased. This indicates that the students have gained valuable insights into the importance of collaboration and its impact on their education. Secondly, there is a notable increase in motivation among the students to acquire new models of the Indonesian curriculum to assist their learning process. This shows their enthusiasm and willingness to embrace innovative approaches in education. Considering the significant benefits derived from this community service activity, it is recommended to extend similar activities to other schools that would benefit from such devotion. By replicating these initiatives, other schools can also enhance their educational practices and benefit from international collaborations. Additionally, it is crucial to ensure continuity and monitoring of the program even after the community service activity concludes. This will guarantee that SIKL effectively implements the designed curriculum in their classrooms, enabling sustained improvements in the quality of education provided.
